

5 Reasons to Rethink Your Digital Workplace Services Partner Relationships

Enterprise platforms span both IT and business processes and support functions. Do you have the right technology partners for your complex ecosystem?

How we work will never be the same; it's just a question of how different it will be. Future-forward organizations are seizing the opportunity to reimagine how work gets done with digital workplaces that increase worker productivity, business agility and employee satisfaction.

Digital workplace platforms impact every layer of the organization. Investing in the future of work is the next step in sustaining and scaling digital transformation initiatives across the enterprise.

What is a digital workplace?

The digital workplace is a cloud-based work platform that allows a business to fully operate in a virtual environment. The platform contains the applications, data and tools employees need to do their jobs both today and—most importantly—in the future. Applications and tools in the digital workplace range from email, instant messaging and collaboration tools to core enterprise applications spanning HR and other business functions.

Evaluate Your Partnership Ecosystem

Your technology partners must deliver solutions today and be flexible enough to grow with you tomorrow.

Ask yourself, "Do I have the right provider to truly transform my business?"

The continuous convergence of IT processes, platforms and partnerships is difficult to navigate, and organizations often underestimate the complexity. This reality is changing long-held buying behaviors, with decision-makers reevaluating vendor relationships and the procurement of IT and business services.

Rethinking partner relationships allows organizations to realize several key benefits:

- 1 Economies of scale and cost savings
- 2 Streamlined processes and tools
- 3 Better information security and risk mitigation
- 4 A more consistent user experience with a single partner
- 5 Less complexity regarding multiple contracts and SLAs

Organizations seek expert partners who can truly integrate with their business processes and culture, and act as an extension of their business.

"Business transformation requires an ecosystem of partnerships. You need partners who can grow with you along the journey."
